

ENGL7809/8809: Technical Editing

Dr. Chloe Robertson

This course is designed as a primer on editing in technical communication with a specific focus on substantive editing, copy editing, proofreading, document organization, visual design, and team management skills and software. Students in this course will practice different levels of editing on different texts from a wide variety of genres. As well as presenting and practicing the different stages of editing, this course will ask students to engage with the rhetorical nuances of the editing process and the ethical responsibilities of editors.
