ENGL 7/8508:

CORPUS LINGUISTICS

Corpus Linguists conduct computerized or computer-assisted language research through an emphasis on corpora, which are large, carefully constructed, and principled collections of naturally occurring language in use. This course emphasizes the methodological considerations involved in corpus construction, annotation, and analysis within a broader picture of linguistic theory and application.

Dr. J. Elliott Casal | Thursdays 1-4pm