

University of Memphis & Meharry Medical College Program to Enhance Collaborative and Interdisciplinary Research

Research Rapid Virtual Networking

A new collaboration

The University of Memphis and Meharry Medical College are coming together to grow collaborative interdisciplinary research between our universities. Seed funding grants are being established to pair UofM and Meharry faculty together on projects that have high potential for external funding from federal funding agencies and national foundations. To help connect faculty, we are establishing a regular networking exchange to encourage idea sharing between the institutions.

Networking Lightning Talks

During the first networking session, we invite faculty interested in applying for seed funding through the new collaborative partnership to present a 3-minute lightning talk.

April 16 | 9 AM

To register for the lightning talk session, visit bit.ly/Memphis-Meharry.

For more details email:

Nichole Scarborough (t.n.s@memphis.edu)
or Jared Elzey (jelzey@mmc.edu).

