

ANTH 3253
The Anthropology of Religion
Summer 2022

What is religion?
What is religious belief?
What is religious practice?
How does religion matter for social life?

This course provides an ethnographic and comparative approach to religion. It explores the meanings of “religion” and its manifestations across cultures. This course also examines the relationship between religion and social life: in ritual, culture, politics, identity, etc.

Summer: 1st Half Part of Term
Course Days/Times: MTWRF 11:30-1:30

Please contact Dr. Michael Vicente Pérez at mvperez@memphis.edu with any questions about this course.